The National Disability Institute strives to build a better economic future for individuals with disabilities and their families. The Real Economic Impact Tour is a project to foster public change, education and training for individuals with disabilities.

Visit the website to find help with money management, budgets, checking accounts, self-employment, asset building opportunities, financial literacy games, weekly spending, etc.

Asset Building is another curriculum designed to orient individuals with disabilities and their families to a possible new way of thinking and action. Visit the website for more information.
