Role and Purpose

The Virginia Department of Health (VDH) is a comprehensive organization, offering a variety of services to Virginia citizens. The VDH offers services through a central office located in Richmond, 35 health districts and more than 100 local health departments. Most services offered relate to health promotion, disease prevention, and environmental protection.

Programs and services offered by the VDH are based on community needs or concerns. The categories outlined below are an overview of services that may interest adults. This should not be considered a complete list of the services offered by VDH. Each health district offers services for adults as well as children and adolescents, including school immunizations. For additional program and service information, you may contact your local health department or visit the Virginia Department of Health website, www.vdh.virginia.gov.

Communicable Disease Control

VDH helps control the spread of communicable diseases. They help locate the source of an outbreak. They also provide vaccines or immunizations to help protect citizens. Services include, but are not limited to:

- Examinations and treatment for spreadable diseases such as
- Tuberculosis,
- Testing and treatment for sexually transmitted diseases such as syphilis and gonorrhea,
- Testing and referral for HIV/AIDS
- Flu and Pneumonia shots, and
- Immunizations required for Foreign Travel.

Environmental Health

VDH makes sure public drinking water and public food sources are safe. The VDH handles complaints regarding food at hospitals, nursing homes, and other types of facilities. Complaints about public health and environmental nuisances are also handled through VDH. VDH also makes sure land around Virginia's nuclear power plants is safe and administers the largest shellfish sanitation program in the United States.

Quality of Care

The Virginia Department of Health, Office of Licensure and Certification (OLC) Complaint Unit inspects, certifies and licenses hospitals, nursing homes, home health agencies, and hospice agencies. The Board of Health sets standards for medical facilities and services (i.e. hospitals, outpatient surgical hospitals, nursing facilities, home health organizations, hospice organizations, and Managed Care Health Insurance Plans). The Code of Virginia guides the Board of Health. The Virginia Department of Health sees that these medical services and facilities meet minimum standards as determined by the Board of Health and the Code of Virginia.

The OLC Complaint Unit investigates complaints from the public on non-compliance with the medical services listed above. The VDH has a toll-free complaint hotline: 1-800-955-1819, or for the Metro Richmond area: (804) 367-2106.

Cost and Coverage

Cost for services at local health departments vary. It depends on the service offered. Services may be offered at no charge. Some services have a flat fee. Some services are offered on a sliding fee scale. A sliding fee scale means that the fee is adjusted based on the amount of income you make. So, the more income you have available, the larger the fee you will pay for the service. Local health departments also accept Medicare and Medicaid. To find the local health department nearest you, search this database using your zip code and the keywords: health department.
