The National Council on Aging (NCOA) website provides consumers with information on topics and links to other sites in the aging network. Through its United Seniors Health Council, consumers can find publications on long-term care, subscribe to its newsletter, Vital Aging Report, and participate in webinars. The newsletter provides information on changes to Medicare, long-term care insurance information, and helpful health-related tips.

Provides accreditation to Senior Centers that the senior center is meeting its mission in a nationally accepted professional fashion.

Senior Community Service Employment Program (SCSEP) provides training and employment opportunities to low-income Americans over the age of 55.
