National Center on Accessibility provides information on publications that are available for individuals with disabilities, videos and research on accessibility issues critical in recreation environments. Newsletter provides information about access to playgrounds, beaches, trails, campgrounds, picnic areas, golf, sports facilities, as well as upcoming training opportunities, research findings related to recreation access and more. Subscription to "NCA News" is free. Also provides information about Discover Camp, a camp for children with disabilities.

There is a products directory on the website to connect consumers with products designed for activities for persons with disabilities.
