Jordan Thomas Foundation provides children affected by limb loss with the prostheses they need throughout childhood and adolescence and serves as a caring resource, advocate and support system.

The Jordan Foundation seeks to help children in the Southeastern USA first but may also provide support to children nationwide. The Board of Directors will accept applications; recipients must present documentation of financial need. Attending physicians and prosthetists are required to submit information, as well as the parents or guardian.

There is a one time assistance program for young adults ages 18-24. The same application and requirements apply.
