The Huntington's Disease Youth Organization (HDYO) is a non-profit voluntary organization that provides appropriate information and education, along with support for young people impacted by Huntington's disease. We are an official entity in both the USA (501c3) and United Kingdom (Charity Commission #1145781). We provide professional support online, creating needed educational content for all age groups (kids, teens, young adults, parents, and professionals), making our site and content available in as many languages as we can. We hope to connect and motivate young people to get involved and to work with other HD organizations to improve what they offer young people affected by this disease.
