Virginia House or Psychosocial Rehabilitation (PSR) is a community mental health service for adults with severe mental illness (SMI) diagnoses. The goal is to help individuals learn the skills necessary to maintain themselves in the community with minimal support.

Support includes help with coping skills, emotional support, community integration, increasing support, social skills, problem-solving skills, time management, and more.

Transportation is an option for the psychosocial program (Virginia House) depending on space availability. Residents of Goochland and Powhatan counties are served.
